
LEGEND

- Gaining Reach
- Stable Reach
- Losing Reach
- Sedimentary Rocks (except Madison Formation)
- Madison Formation
- AGSP-4 + Spring

NOTE: The section in lower Rock Creek below station L-23 has been noted as a stable reach due to recent data, but is probably more properly characterized under normal flow conditions as a losing reach followed by a gaining reach due to circulation of groundwater through the alluvium along the stream channel.

Source: Water Management Consultants, 1998

GAINING, LOSING, AND STABLE REACHES OF MINE SITE DRAINAGES

FIGURE 3.3-26